Charter School Capital Funding Enables Skyline Education to Grow and Provide the Resources Needed for Their Students

Providing a quality education to at-risk students is the mission at Skyline Education, a charter network in Arizona. Their formula includes one-on-one instruction with teachers, access to modern technology, and customized plans for students with special needs. Skyline opened its first campus in 2000 and began to rapidly expand in 2009. Now Skyline has six campuses that serve over 1000 students in socially and economically diverse communities.

“We wanted to make purchases but didn’t have the up-front funding. That’s why we called Charter School Capital; they helped us get that short-term funding.”

KJ WEIHING, VICE PRESIDENT OF FINANCE
SKYLINE EDUCATION

CHALLENGES

- Rapid increases in enrollment came with very high up-front expenses that they didn’t have the capital to finance.
- Uncertain payment schedules from the State of Arizona meant that administrators knew they needed help to even out their budget throughout the year.
- Inability to finance computer purchases and other needs to support their growth.

SOLUTION

- Work with Charter School Capital to access the working capital needed to finance their growth
- Charter School Capital provided immediate short-term funds to get the supplies they needed, when they needed them—eliminating the need to wait on state funding.

THE RESULT

Having access to reliable and predictable working capital has enabled Skyline Education to provide the equipment and resources their students needed to thrive. This partnership has allowed Skyline Schools to continue to grow and educate even more at-risk students in underserved communities.
